Meet Charity: The youngest of the princesses. Her favorite color is green, like the color of her eyes. She is independent, charming and a big thinker. She likes adventure, so you might find her with boots under her petticoat. You can often find her climbing trees or jumping off the stable roof into the hay wagon. She is always game for anything and fear is not in her vocabulary. Underneath her tough image lies a gentle heart. She is loyal even when turbulent times test her true character and commitment to those she has been called to serve. She is dependable and helps the workers in the stables, even though they tell her not to. She can be a bit stubborn! She tells everyone that she wants to be a veterinarian when she's older, even though they tell her she's a PRINCESS. Her character lessons lie in "reaching out in charity to those in need" and "finding courage amidst a difficult decision" when she tells the parable story of the Good Samaritan.

While this event is geared more towards the girls, boys may attend if they wish. We will spend the morning learning how we are all daughters and sons of the one true king. We do ask that a parent stays with those in Kindergarten and younger. This event is held in the Auditorium, please enter through the Clover St. doors. Volunteers are needed and should contact Heather Hawn at HeatherRHawn@gmail.com or 419-332-1558 if interested.
