CALL COMMITTEE UPDATE

Greetings from the Call Committee! To begin, I'd like to ask you to reflect on this prayer that we recited as part of a devotion at our last meeting:

Gracious accompanying God, the One in whom we live and move and have our being, give us a vision of the times of our lives, the new situations in which we live out our faith in Jesus. May we ask anew what it means to be the Church in our time, in our place. And as we work to call a new pastor to our congregations, may we welcome - according to your spirit - the one you are sending to us to lead us into the new days ahead. Amen.

All in God's time. It's often difficult for many of us to "put on our patient pants" and pray and wait for an outcome. Especially when the outcome is so important. Rest assured that we all have a part to play in the preparation for this next chapter in the life of our faith community. As the Call Committee has met, explored our role, and charted out our first-round candidate questions, we have had great conversations and reviewed your comments / suggestions that were collected via survey - and in-person at the cottage meetings held last year - and reflected in the Ministry Site Profile. As you may recall, the Ministry Site Profile is like a reverse job description. It provides a detailed description of our congregation and our community. A small announcement about our search for a Senior Pastor is posted on the ELCA website for potential candidates to see. It is live and viewable right this second for potential candidates to ponder a potential match with our congregation. Their next step would be to contact the synod level Call Process Facilitator to express interest in us. Our next synod recommended step is to host a practice candidate Zoom interview. And that step is scheduled for Thursday, March 24, 2022. Whenever a candidate presents him - or her - self, the committee is ready to rock and roll!

In addition to the Call Committee members' role, you also have a critical part to play. We need your prayers to help lift up the committee's efforts, and propel us toward a positive conclusion. We also want to encourage you to ask questions if you are curious. Find any one of us / Find any one of them - (call out committee members if present) - and we'll / they'll be happy to update you on progress. When we are matched with a pastoral candidate to interview, of course we will need to practice confidentiality. Keep in mind they may still be shepherding another faith community as they prepare for their potential transition. But we can certainly answer process questions and assure you that things are moving in the right direction.

So please continue to pray. Pray for the candidate that could - this very moment - be discerning a change in their life trajectory. Pray for our committee as we / they dedicate time and effort to this valuable process. And pray for each other as we continue forward as a congregation focused on growing in faith and sharing the light of Christ.

Thank you!

A NOTE FROM PASTOR MARK

Since coming to Grace as your interim pastor, I have mentioned the fact that I grew up in Hendricks, Minnesota, a small town of about 700 people in the southwest corner of the state near the South Dakota and Iowa borders. Every community experiences moments of tragedy -- an untimely death or natural disaster which becomes part of the community's consciousness and history.

One of those moments of tragedy came in the summer of 1970, when Greg Thomsen, a 1968 Hendricks graduate, and a good friend of my older brother, became a quadriplegic after sustaining a spinal cord injury in a diving accident. I remember visiting him in Twin Cities hospitals and rehab centers, as I was working and going to school there at the time.

Greg adjusted as well as anyone could to such a personal tragedy, enrolling in college and graduating with a degree in psychology. Greg had great support from his family and had an inseparable bond of love with his brother Kelly, four years younger than himself. Kelly learned to provide all the necessary personal care that Greg needed, and could easily pick him up, put him in the car, toss his wheelchair in the trunk, and off they would go on another adventure together.

But on January 12, 1975, another tragedy struck. Kelly was a sophomore at Augustana College in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, and on a weekend trip home, he and his roommate Gary were caught in a blizzard as their car slid from the road into the ditch. They tried to make it to the nearest house to find shelter and help, but the next morning, their frozen bodies were found wrapped in a down-filled sleeping bag about a hundred yards from their car.

After Kelly's funeral, Greg found a way to keep Kelly's spirit with him and fuel new dreams for himself. Greg put it this way in an inspirational article that he wrote for Lutheran Digest a few years ago about his experiences and his relationship with Kelly:

Together we had overcome a terrible disability and now I would go on to overcome this. We had talked often of dreams and believed that hope rested squarely on hard work and a deep faith in God. Humans can endure things that cannot be understood. Faith in God had taught me that hope might be born in a different package than ever expected.

Three years after burying my brother I had finished two master's degrees, a doctoral degree, and landed a job at Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. There I met my future wife who would support me through a third master's degree in health care administration. With my family's support I went on to hold executive positions within several healthcare systems and today serve as the chief executive officer of a hospital.

Looking back over the span of thirty-five years I have learned something about hope. At the core of despair is truly where God resides waiting for us to simply ask for hope. Some moments glimmer with only a shadow of it. However, when these moments are chained together, they lead to an ongoing sense of optimism. God is always there, moment by moment, a devoted partner in a brutal world. When hope seems lost and dreams broken, faith in God is the center to a new life.

Wow! What an outstanding statement of Easter hope! We will soon complete our Lenten journey, which ends with a "core of despair" that Jesus utters from the cross, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" But when "hope seems lost and dreams broken," God steps in on Easter morning and destroys death forever.

We participate in and are renewed by that hope as we gather every week to hear God's word, feel God's presence, and know our risen Lord is with us in a special way in the bread and wine of Holy Communion. It continues to be a privilege to share and celebrate that hope with the people at Grace.

P.S. After a period of declining health including dementia, Greg died on February 10, 2017, at the age of 66. He is survived by his wife, Patty, and his mother Geraldine.

Unfortunately, we don't always catch errors in real time and afterwards is too late to fix a bad audio feed or other errors. We'd also like feedback on how we can make the service more personal for those of you who watch from home.
